Boils, Rashes, Pimples, Etc.

When the blood becomes infected with any unhealthy humor the effect is shown by boils, pimples, and rashes or eruptions on the skin. Humors get into the blood usually because of an inactive condition of the eliminative members. Thus unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment and be absorbed into the circulation. Remove these humors and no skin trouble can exist, because its very source is then removed. Boils, rashes, pimples, etc. can never be cured through the application of external medicines, because such treatment can have no possible effect on the blood; the most to be obtained from such measures is temporary relief. S. S. S. CURES all skin affections because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and cleanses it of every particle of unhealthy matter. Then the blood exercises its normal function of supplying nourishment to the cuticle instead of irritating it with a fiery humor. If you have any skin trouble you could not do better than purify your blood with S. S. S. It does not "patch up" it cures. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free.

Wilson Wrong about Republicans But It Is True That Vetoes Save Them.

LABOR! Governor Wilson recently said that neither the workmen nor the farmers were heard at Washington when tariff legislation was being considered. The governor never made a greater mistake. The representatives of labor and of the farmers are constantly on hand at Washington to protect their interests. The strongest opposition to the Panama Canal bill, with its provision for free ships, was found in the representatives of organized labor. They did not hesitate to say that free trade in ships would ruin the American shipbuilding plants and throw thousands of workmen out of labor. We suggest that these representatives of the labor organizations mail a duplicate of their protest to Governor Wilson, who seems to be fair-minded and eager to secure information and who seeks to be advised by all the people.—LESLIE'S.

Employers of labor and the workmen of West Virginia through their organizations protested most vigorously at Washington against any tampering with the tariff schedules which affected them. These protests were made by letter and in person to every congressman from this state. The iron, steel and tin plate workers in the First district—that great army of intelligent American workmen—which is such a large and desirable class of the state's citizenship, protested to Congressman Davis. They protested in vain. It is charged that they did not receive the courtesy of having arrangements made for them so that they could appear before the committee having the tariff bills in charge. They complain bitterly of their treatment. An excuse given to them by Mr. Davis for voting against their interests—against the great manufacturing industries of the First district—was that he had bound himself to a caucus agreement, formulated before the actual tariff tinkering began, to stand with the foes of the protective policy in the Democratic party, and vote to approve anything they did. This means, that Mr. Davis agreed in advance of anything being done to support it. What was done everybody knows. Manufacturers and their employees in the First district, as well as the farmers and the stock and sheep men, were dealt a blow which their own representative not only did not attempt at any time to ward off, but actually helped to be struck. This is true of Hamilton in the Fourth, Littlepage in the Third, and Brown in the Second. These three have similar industries and interests in their respective districts. They bound themselves up to a caucus agreement which virtually said to the enemies of protection: "Go ahead and do anything you like to the business interests of West Virginia and our laboring men and farmers, and we will stand by you and vote to sustain you." And that is exactly what they did.

The people of West Virginia charge these men with willful neglect, wanton inefficiency and woeful lack of caution in signing away their voices and their votes to congressmen from other states, who had no knowledge of the condition of this state and no interest in promoting its great business interests and its army of sturdy American toilers.

Vote Against the People.

Every vote on the tariff cast by Davis was a vote against the prosperity of the men in the mills of Wheeling, Clarksburg, and Fairmont, and consequently against the welfare of their families. On tariff subjects, his every vote was against the farmers, sheep-raisers and stock-graders in the counties that compose the district. Every vote cast by Brown on the tariff was against the factory people of Morgantown, the railroad men at Grafton, the men in the mines and against the great farming population which makes up such a large part of his constituency. Over a million and a half dollars worth of sheep—not counting wool—was ruined in his district last year.

In the Third district, Littlepage stands charged with the same intentional or unintentional treason to the best interests of the people who voted to send him to Washington.

In the Fourth district, John Hamilton cast a vote against the iron and steel workers in the big mill at Parkersburg, and against the men who work the farm and raise and market the sheep and cattle in those eleven counties.

They are "Unsound."

These four congressmen do not represent in their tariff views the majority sentiment of their own constituency. They are as unsound on the tariff as their party was on the money question. They have the wrong ideas about it. They should not longer be permitted to misrepresent the great protective tariff sentiment of West Virginia. It is too dangerous.

The workmen of West Virginia are not opposed to the tariff policy of the Republican party. Neither are the farmers. These two classes are strongly in favor of continuing the protective policy, with varying changes to meet varying conditions. Protection in the tariffs has always meant prosperity. Tariff for revenue or otherwise free trade has always meant what? First the lowering of the standard of living of the laboring classes. And after that many things, which those who lived during the Wilson panic of 1893 remember all too well and sadly.

It is a remedy at our risk. It seems to be in so many forms that any itching eruption is almost certain to be this disease. In the acute stage the itching is almost insupportable. As it does not give one a moment's peace.

Our new skin remedy, Saxo Salve, was devised to meet the need for a really trustworthy and scientific treatment of skin troubles. Saxo Salve not only stops the terrible itching at once, but also penetrates the skin pores, reaching the very root of the disease with its healing germ-destroying power.

You will be both surprised and delighted to see how the eruption begins to dry up and disappear after the first few applications.

It is splendid for children as well as for adults, and we give back your money if Saxo Salve does not satisfy you perfectly. Stone & Mercer, druggists, Clarksburg, W. Va.—Advertisement.

chance to vote on a wool tariff measure.

Illuminating this subject, further, permit us to quote a letter from the largest wool-buying firm in West Virginia and in this part of the country, Horkheimer Brothers, of Wheeling. Under date of September 28, 1912, one of the members of this firm writes to the editor of the Wheeling Intelligence as follows:

"Sir: Replying to your inquiry, I believe that I can say with absolute certainty that the effect of the Democratic wool bill, had it become a law, would have been seriously to cripple, if not entirely destroy, the wool-growing industry of West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Our wool has had, and now has, a protective duty of eleven cents per pound. The proposed bill reduced the protective duty to about twenty-nine cents ad valorem, or approximately four cents per pound. Experience has shown that lowering the duty or wiping it out practically lowers the value of wool by the entire amount of duty removed. In other words, the effect of this wool bill would have been to lower the price of our own home wool six or seven cents per pound.

"It is unnecessary to say what this would have meant to the farmers of the Panhandle counties of West Virginia, and to the farmers of eastern Ohio. Fortunately, the veto in the hands of President Taft saved them from the threatened danger, and every man interested in the wool business owes a debt to Mr. Taft by virtue of this veto. I am not a politician, I write this simply as a business man interested in the wool industry, and more or less familiar with the conditions under which wool is grown in this section.

son bill, which put wool on the free list, we bought millions of pounds of wool at nine to ten cents per pound for unwashed wool, and twelve to fourteen cents per pound for choice washed wool. Unwashed wool this year sold from twenty-two to twenty-five cents, washed wool from twenty-eight to thirty cents. This certainly shows clearly the result of a protective duty of eleven cents.

"LOUIS HORKHEIMER."

Columns of comment could be written on this, but it is not necessary. All that is necessary is to ask the sheep and wool men in the First congressional district the question: "Do you want to continue to be misrepresented in the Congress of the United States?" If you do, then vote for the re-election of Congressman Davis. If you do not, then be sure to vote for the election of the Hon. George A. Laughlin, a business man and a sound protectionist.

A Prominent Politician Says: "We Should Have More Confidence In Each Other."

But he forgets that confidence is a plant of slow growth. He forgets that to ASK for it, is to LOSE it.

He forgets that only those who EARN it ever GAIN it. The men of this city have confidence in this store, not because we ASKT them to—oh, no!

But because season after season, year after year, suit after suit, and overcoat after overcoat, we have demonstrated, proved, shown that nowhere are garments STYLED and PRICED as we style and price ours.

And so, Mr. Politician, don't whine about a lack of confidence. Go out and earn it, deserve it, be worthy of it—and it'll come your way all right, all right.
